To: Leslie Bonham [bonham@monroe.net]

Subject: Monroe Park

Dear Mayor Bonham:

I am writing in regard to the proposed law banning the feeding of pigeons in Monroe Park. I would like to express my support for this legislation. I do not dislike pigeons but I feel that they are unsanitary and a nuisance.

I love Monroe Park but have been forced to stay away from the area. I used to go running and have picnics in the park, but the pigeon population is out of hand and it is nearly impossible to do anything without a pigeon getting in the way. Last time my family and I had a picnic, a pigeon kept landing on our table and coming back despite our efforts to make it leave.

People must stop feeding these birds. If this legislation passes, I believe park conditions will be overall improved. It will be cleaner and more pleasant.

Thank you for your time and your concern for our city.

Sincerely,

Russell Glanz

153. What is the main purpose of this e-mail?

- (a) To complain about construction
- (b) To thank the mayor for his support
- (c) To express support for a proposed law
- (d) To persuade the mayor to change his mind

154. What does Mr. Glanz recall?

- (a) Having a picnic with his family
- (b) Cleaner streets and less traffic
- (c) Leaving for work at a later time
- (d) Reading by the fountain in the park.

To: Sales staff

Subject: Tuesday

I just got word that James Macy, Vice President of Sales, will be visiting the store next Tuesday. He will be here to check overall and individual sales, discuss strategy, give tips, and have lunch with us.

I would like everyone to work hard until then and think about what you're doing right and/or wrong. Mr. Macy is very down-to-earth and friendly. Relax, act natural, be professional, and everything will be fine.

I'm sure Mr. Macy will give great insight into how to improve our sales. Although our sales are slightly above our goals, there is always room for improvement.

Regards,

Jim Bates

155. What is the main purpose of the e-mail?

- (a) To request a meeting
- (b) To announce a visitor
- (c) To announce sales goals
- (d) To discuss individual sales

156. What advice does Mr. Bates give to his employees?

- (a) Be prompt

Gilbert's Woodworks

912 Cruse Avenue

Helena, MT 59601

Dear Mr. Cruz:

I recently visited a friend who had her cabinets custom-made by your company. I loved the craftsmanship and detail of the cabinets and would like to know more about the services you offer.

My mother's birthday is in two months and I would like to replace her coffee table with something special.

Although your company is based in Montana, I was wondering if you would be able to deliver to Chicago. If you would, please send me a catalog or some company brochures about the work your company offers. I'm looking for something elegant.

Thank you for your time and help. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Michelle Kahn

Byron rejects $29.5 billion offer

Drugmaker Byron rejected a $29.5 billion hostile takeover bid by Crotrex after a long meeting at Byron's company headquarters in Baltimore.

Calling the bid inadequate after beating market expectations for two consecutive quarters, Byron's chief Floyd Lehman hinted the company might be willing to deal "if Crotrex doesn't undervalue Byron," which is currently worth about $39 a share.

Yet a spokesman for Crotrex said it would be unwilling to negotiate the price but would consider changing other terms of the agreement. Talks are expected to resume next week.

166. What does the article mainly discuss?

- (a) A possible merger
- (b) A drop in share prices
- (c) A hostile takeover bid
- (d) A announcement of plant closures

(d) It did not meet market expectations.

167. What can be concluded about Byron?

- (a) It is based in Baltimore.
- (b) It manufactures automobiles.
- (c) The CEO is unwilling to negotiate.

168. What is the problem?

- (a) The price offered was too low.
- (b) Competition has been increasing.
- (c) Union members have been on strike.
- (d) Company shares have continued to fall.

Was anyone particularly helpful/unhelpful?

I wanted to buy some headphones to use with my mp3 player. John H., who worked in the audio department, recommended that I purchase the Soundwave 5.0 headphones for $125. Although I thought the headphones were out of my price range, I bought them because he convinced me they were the best purchase. When I took them home, the left side of the headphones was not working. I immediately took them back for a refund but could not find my receipt. Although John H. remembers I purchased the headphones earlier in his shift, he refused to give me a refund. After arguing with the manager for almost an hour, I finally got a refund. I went through so much of a hassle for a pair of headphones that did not work! It was the worst experience I've ever had at the store and probably will not return.

Any additional comments?

I feel that I was pressured into purchasing expensive headphones by someone who does not have proper product knowledge. I've read various reviews and all of them have been negative. Why would your employee recommend a bad product? I've bought major electronics from your store in the past and always had great service from knowledgeable employees.

Playtime makes Brainy Babies

By Karen Viera

Playtime, Inc., a leading maker of infant and toddler products, announced a new division including books and teaching materials called Baby School.

Marketed as a baby's first experience with learning, the division is aimed at the growing number of parents who enroll their children in educational centers at and sometimes before the age of two.

Ranging from numbers to animals and even foreign languages, Baby School Books will include titles from most subjects. "We came up with the idea after hearing about basic foreign language classes attended by parents with their infants," said Playtime Planning Executive Robert R. Hershire. "Studies show that educating children at their earliest years can help increase scores and possibly boost IQs. Parents are responding positively, which is encouraging."

Baby School's first publications will include a book of beginning words in phrases in Spanish, French, and German. There will also be a book of numbers and beginning math as well as introductory science, which will include topics such as animals and space.

"We're confident we will get a positive response based on the interest we've already experienced," said Hershire referring to high orders from book and baby stores. Baby School products will debut this Friday.

177. What is Playtime?

- (a) A new school
- (b) A children's game
- (c) A children's store

Dear Mr. DeWitt,

Thank you for your help on Thursday. It was nice meeting you.

I'd like to submit my advertisement to run for two weeks from September 2-17. As you said, the discounted price for non-profit organizations for a quarter page, two-week ad is $353.80. Please send me an invoice so I can send you a check.

Attached is our advertisement in a Photoshop file format. Please let me know if you have any problems with the ad. I would like to update it next week as the show approaches.

I'm looking forward to seeing our ad next Friday. If you are available on Sunday, Sept. 17, I'd like to invite you to our show.

Have a great week.

Yours truly,

Emily Eastwood
